OverviewDocuments

Its non-slip material won't scratch or mar surfaces. A sharp, steel blade cuts tape straight, quick, and clean. We designed the HB900 to be portable and can be conveniently taken where needed. The dispenser core holds tape rolls snugly for smooth pull-and-tear operation.

Dispensers Are Indispensable

Tape dispensers hold a roll, keep the tape end accessible, and provide a means of cutting the tape. Dispensers have a central spool or core and include a mechanism at one end for shear-cutting the tape. They are available in a wide variety of options, from single use, to automated industrial machines. The hand-held variety range from plastic, which may be either refillable or disposable, to larger devices used for packaging and bundling in conjunction with shipping. With convenience in mind, hand-held tape dispensers are common accessories in office and light-industrial settings. Weighted desktop dispensers are useful for a variety of office, retail, industrial, and home use. A weighted base keeps the dispenser stable for single-hand use yet allows portability to be carried anywhere taping is needed. Dispensers for package and bundling operations also feature single-handed design for ergonomics and convenience.
